

Artiko

design mdd

The name Artiko correlates to the idea behind the design. In Esperanto, it means "joint", and the series is based on the possibility to freely join differently shaped modules.

It was designed as a collection of slightly rounded elements that can be freely combined. Soft shapes and the lack of sharp edges allow for creating an unlimited number of fluid forms. Artiko generates a friendly atmosphere in the interior. It favours relaxations and rest, as well as social interactions – it can be arranged in a way to bring people together or designate niches for them.

Backrests and practical add-ons – tables and mediaboxes – allow the user to increase the functionality of the seat. Thanks to that, Artiko will be great for public interiors, such as lounge zones in offices, libraries, hotels or universities. At the same time, it will compliment waiting rooms and residential interiors just as well. According to the characteristics of the space, Artiko can be elegant and serious or colourful and funny – you decide.
